THE PRISONER OF ST HELENA. (FROM THE SCOTSMAN) Perched on a rock, and caged afar From Europe's peace or Europe's war, Left to myself, to groan and smart, But sifted with a marble heart; I still can live, and, f. ee from pain, Dream all my battles o'er again,

Walk in the sun, and breathe the air, Enjoy my bed and daily fare, And having won and lost the earth, Reflect how little it is worth.

Ye drivelling, wretched, raidal race, Who gravely strut upon its face; Ye shallow dolts, and halt-bred knaves, Who for a while have been my slaves. I have not grudged to make you bleed, Nor spared the thinning of your breed. Soon sprout up tares to fill the ground; The wheat, alas! I've seldom found; And if amongst you any grew, "Fis better mown, than mixed with you.

To scourge your tribes I ne'er refused. But man was all the scourge I used ; The hope of plunder manned my line, And your ambition pimped for mine. No kingdom did I overthrow, But would have served its neighbor so; For peace no canting monarch sued, But would have swaggered if he could; And that proud isle across the sea, Wished, in her heart, to rule like me.

Then fare you well ! I scorn your hate, Nor hear nor care for Europe's prate; But men shall read, in after days, Who shok her gimeracks to the base-Alone I did it! for I rose From nothing, against sceptred foes.

When autumn wingen the blast with pow-To sweep the bending forest bare, [er Deep in the vale I found a flower. A little rose that lingered there. Though half is blushing sweets had fied, Its leaves were edg'd with winter snows; Yet still the fragrant odours shed, Declared love's emblem was a Rose!

With curious, though with eager haste, I seized the little fading prize, Then in my bosom fondly press'd, The faintly blushing floweret lies;

I fled impatient to my fair, My heart with fond affection glows; "A flower, my love, to deck your hair, A little mo 'est Harvest Rose.

" When first its vivid blooming bue The amoreus zephyrs kiss'd with pride, A then, my life, it lock'd like you,

When first I clasp'd my bloshing bride. Its fragrance still, though flown the dye, Is thy pure soul, where friendshipglows; That friemiship lives-sweet Harvest Rose !"

EDMUND BURKE.

This great man had in his heart a rooted contempt for the character and profession of a merchant. He had imbibed all the prejudices of anold Romanus with respect to trade. The words merchant and thief always appeared to him nearly synonymous; and he never could separate the idea of commerce from that of exclusion, monopoly, and avarice. Do not talk to me, said he once in the house of commons, of the liberality and patriotism of a merchant: his God is his gold—his country his invoice—his desk his altar—his ledger his hible his church his exchange-and he has faith in none but his banker.'

Burke used to relate the following story :- when he 'ad made a speech which was well received from the hustings of Bristol, at the time of the rupture between this country and America, poor Cruger, who was one of the candidates, was standing by his side. Equally averse with Burke to the American contest, but master of no other language than the short vocabulary of the counting house, he cried · I say ditto to Mr. Burke, I say ditto to Mr. Bucke.'

A scrutinizing eye can readily disgover intrinsic talent.

ALEXANDRIA: TURSDAY. SEPT. MPER 16. 1817.

THE POTOMAC. From the National Intelligencer of September 13.1

We are delighted to find that the public attention has been partially awakened to the vast importance of perfecting the Navigation of the Potomac, than which there is no single object more intimately connected with the prosperity of the District of Columbia. It is very satisfactory to learn that the Potomac Company have at length taken the state of its concerns into serious consideration, and adopted measures to retrieve them, as we gather from an intimation in the Georgetown Messenger. The company for improving the navigation of the Shenandeah (now a distinct company, no longer connected with the Potomac company) are also busily engaged in the works necessary to make the Shenandoah navigable for a hunred miles from its wouth, through the tertile valley which forms its bed. So highly do we appreciate the value of these improvements, that we believe an hundred thousand dollars a year, contributed gratuitously by the holders of property in this district to the completion of the navigation of the Potomac as far as practicable, would be a provident and profitable expenditure-a gratuity, in regard to which it might be truly, almost literally said, "Cast thy bread upon the waters, " and after many days it shall return to " thee."

The following is an extract from the article in the Messenger which is above

"The road which nature has given us, or some of her efforts, (whether at the original creation, or since) by means of some terrible disruption, it is immaterial to consider on this occasion, is the river Potomac, which empties its waters, and with them will ere long be in a state of preparation to empty also the vast products of the vast region through which it meanders, into the ap of Georgetown .-The Sherandoah also uniting itself with this noble river, will float into it from the same ma ket the immense products of the fertile soil porgering its route. The cheapness of this mode of conveyance over any other, will never fail to ensure to it the trade of all those whose contiguity to the shores of those two rivers, puts its advantages within their reach. And here it will not be improper to remark, that no people, in any improvement which it was deemed advantageous to make, ever had greater cause or gratulation than have the citizens of wis town, and the farmers in the upper country, on the recent apand John Laird, E-quires, as managers for the improvement of this navigation They present a rare union of talents, enterprize, integrity and practical experience. A new tate of things has already grown up under their auspices. We look with confidence to the accomplishment of the work in which they are engaged."

The army court martial, convened in this city for the trial of certain charges preferred agains an officer of marines, sternay adjourned sine die, having decided, under the 68in arricle of the rules and acticles of war, that they were incompetent, alone, to try a marine officer, though officers of the army might be placed on a court with marine officers for that purpose. This appears to be a ques-It proves, though love's warm ardout die, tion heretofere undecided, and which it may prove beneficial to the service to have now definitively seitled. [Nat. Int

From the New York Evening Post. THE WONDERFUL SEA SERPENT.

In addition to the information which the appearance of the sea serpent in the waters of New-ingland has lately bro't to light, we are enabled, by the politeness of Dr. Mitchill, to add the following interesting particulars for the amusement of our readers:

Copy of a letter addressed to Dr. Mitchill, by our late consul at Bordeaux, now in the treasury department, Wm. Lee our late consul at Bordeaux, now Esquire. Washington, Sept. 2, 1817. " My DEAR STR,-The description given in our newspapers of a sea scrpent, lately seen for several days in and about Cape Ann harbor, has brought to my recollection one of this species.

"On a passage I made from Quebec, in 1787, in a schooner of about eighty tons burthen, while standing in for the Gut of C: nso, the island of Cape Breton being about four leagues distant, one of the crew cried out " a shoal a-head !"-The helm was instantly put down to tack ship, when, to our great astonishment, this shoal, as we thought it to be, moved off, and as it passed athwart the bow of our ressel, we discovered it to be an enormous sea serpent, four times, at least, as long as the schooner. Its back was of a dark green color, forming above the water a number of little hillocks, resembling a chain of hogsheads. I was then but a lad, and being much terrified, ran below until the monster was at some distance from us. I did not see his head distinctly; but those who did, after I had hid myself in the cabin, said it was as large as the small boat of the schooner. I recollect the tremendous ripple and noise ne made in the water, as he went off from us, which I compared at the time to that occasioned by the launching of a ship. ... My venerable friend, Mr. your city, was a passenger with me at the time. He will corroborate this state ment, and probably furnish you with a better description of this monster; for I weil recollect his taking his stand at the bow of the vessel, with great courage, to examine it, while the other passengers were intent only on their own safety

" at Halifax, and on my return to Boston, when frequently describing this monster, I was laughed at so immoderately that I found it necessary to remain silent on the subject, to escape the imputation of using a t aveller's privilege of dealing in the marvellous."

In addition to the above, the following facts are verbally communicated by the doctor himself:

On the evening of September 9 capt. James Riley was at my house, and said that he knew capt. Folger, of Nantucket, who was occupied on a whaling voyage in the southern Atlantic Ocean about 20 years ago. On the civize he saw an animal of uncommon size floating on the sea, off the coast of Brazil. Captain F. then commanded a very large French built ship, and the floating carcase was four or times as long as his vessel. It attracted the spermaceti whales, who came to feed upon it, and had caten away great portions of the flesh. He vis.ted the huge body of the creature, and satisfied himself that it was an enormous craken. He hauled all his boats upon it, and his men ascended it and lived upon it as if it had been a rock or island. They remained on it and near it for the purpose of killing the whales that came to devour it. In this they were so successful, that by continuing there they took whales enough to load their vessel and complete her cargo. The back of the craken was high and dry enough for them to inhabit temperarily, and to look out for their game. And the great expedition against Margarita, when from this point of observation they discovered a whale coming to make a meal, they launched their boats from the top of the dead craken, and made an easy prey of him. The substance of the mouter's body was skinny, memb anous and gelatioous, and destitute of the fat and blubber for which the whale is so re-markable."

NEW-YORK, Sept. 12.

PROM THE SPANISH MAIN. A letter in the Commbian last even ing, from a gentleman at Kingston, J-maica, dated 25th of July, states that the Patriots had obtained an important victory over the Royalists on the plains of Cassanare, killing Gen. Boyer, and a great number of officers of the reval troops. A report was current that an in-surrection had broken out in the southern part of New Grenada.

LATER FROM THE MAIN.

By the arrival yesterday afterneon of the schooner Major Croghan, Captain Wootten, in 25 days from Curracou, the editors of the New-York Baily Advertiland cotton, 50 sols; 150 do. do. 49 1-2; ser have received a regular file of Curra-46 do. do. crd. 48. 4th, 40 do. do. 50; coa papers to the 9th of August, which contain the following intelligence from the Main. From the Curracoa Gazette.

By the arrival of the British brig Ma ry-Ann, Cust. Wood, from Puerto Cabelio, we are enabled to lay before our readers some authentic particulars relative to the late expedition which arrived from Spain, of which we have heard so many contradictory accounts. It appears ecedingly dull, in consequence of the fine 32 guns each, a sloop of war 22 guns, pith and pungency of remark and season, and the prospect of an abundant and 30 transports, (several of which were it has seidom been surpassed in the whole having disembarked at Cuma-na about the end of May. Early in June Gen: Morilla arrived at Cumana in the sloop of war Baylen, of 24 guns, accomnamed by the brigs Perignon and Jecin ta, of 18 guns each. After having taken the command of the army, and having subdued Cariaco, Cumanacoa, and Carupano, Gen. Morillo returned to Cumano, eaving garrisons of creole troops to protect the conquered places. Col. Ximines has been sent with 600 men to attack Quira, where some patriot forces had re-

These dispositions having been made the troops from Spain were re-embarked on board the transports, and accompanied by the vessels of war set sail for the island of Coche, where Col. Aldame, who commanded 2d division from Barce lona, having joined Gen. Morillo, the whole proceeded against Margarita. A landing was effected at Port North, where the patriots made some resistance. The Spanish loss is stated at 9 men kill ed and 5 officers wounded, the patriots losing at the same time 350 men. Morillo sent a flag of truce into Pampatar, and it is asserted that the officer who carried it was put to death. The places was immediately starmed and taken with very little resistance, there being only 2 guns in the fort. According to the lest accounts received in Puerto Cabello, the Spaniards were in possession of the whole island, with exception of the mountainous parts to which the patriots had fled. Mer.llo .-Under such circumstances we have experienced much difficulty in stating the pos-ture of affairs on the Main, but whether in the present case the accounts of the one party should be believed in preference to those of the other, we shall leave it to the judgment of our readers to determine. The expedition directed by General

Morillo against Margarita has met with an unfavorable issue. Ine had succeeded so far in landing a considerable number of troops near the bank of the Arenas, at the same time that his squadron was menacing Pampatar. The people of Margarifa conceiving this to be a scheme of the enemy, in order to conceal their real intent, which was safely to effect their landing, left a garrison at Pampatar, sufficient to annoy their operations in that quarter, and marched with the greatest part of their forces to meet the invaders, sho had introduced themselves by way of Arenas; after fortifying the heights with some good corps of reserve, the Inde-pendents pushed forward towards the shore, posted themselves in ambush and suffered the enemy to advance unmolest. ed, until they were caught in the centre. and in the middle of two fires. The surprise of the enemy was such, that accordng to the accounts of the patriots, they suffered a most extraordinary and sangui nary defeat, and fled in great disorder. Their loss is stated at 600 slain, an equal number of wounded, who were conveyed in five vessels to Cumana, a great number dispersed in the mountains, who were daily made prisoners, and some drowned in the confusion to regain their ships. Three whole days had been employed by the victors to secure the ammunitions a bandoned by the royalists, and it is asserted that none of these would have escaped had there been time for the cavalry to co-operate to advantage.

"Gen. Merino, drawing a proper ad vantage from this victory and from the unprotected state in which Gen. Morillo had abandoned Cumana, for the sake of availed himself of the opportunity now of tered to him to retake Cariaco and Carupano, and advanced against Cumana, which place was reduced to a state of starvation.

. A Spanish corvette has run agroun on Point Aragua, and the inhabitants of Margarita were actively employed to get her affoat, as an acquisition to their navy. " News arrived at St. Thomas from Grenade, Prinidael, Barbados, Martinique and St. Bartholomews, confirmed uniformly the progress of the Republican army against Guayana, and the final re-duction of that place. Admiral Brion entered the Oronoco with the squadron under his command, and made some valuable prizes. Seven fletcheras from Margarita tell in with, and completely destroyed twenty Spanish vessels in the mouths of that river.

" The Spanish officer who had taken Barcelona, and put every one of its in-habitants to the sword, has been lately beaten by general Zaraza; who, besides surprized a Spanish garrison of 250 men in the town of San Diego. "A barrel of corn is worth 20 dollars

MRS. JORDON.

Among the papers by the Pacific, we received the Chester Courant, of the 24th of June, from which we copy the following interesting "original and genuine Anecdote of the late colebrated actress, Mrs. Jordon, from Riley's ltimerant, recently published."

Those who, like me, had the pleasure of being on terms of friendly intimacy with this unrivalled actress. equally a credit to her profession, and en honor to buman mature, will corroborate my testimony in asserting that in addition to her many other good qualities, she possessed a heart oscentible of the most tender and hamane emotions, called into instant action by the least approach of misery or distress. During her short stay at Chester, where she was performing as usual to crowded and enraptured bouses, her washerwoman, a widow with three small children, was by a merciless creditor thrown into prison. A small debt of 40 shillings having in a very short time, by the usual process of the glorious uncertainty, item. this, that, and the other, been worked up to a bill of 8 pounds. As soon as this good creature heard of the event, she sent for the Attorney, paid his demand, and observed with as much severity as her good natured countenance could assume. "You lawyers, are certainly infermal spirits sent on earth to make poor mortals miserable." The Attorney. however pocketed the affront, and with a low bow made his exit. On the afternoon of the same day, the poor woman was liberated. As Mrs. Jordon with her servant was taking her usual walk on the Chester walls, the widow with her three children followed her, and just as she had taken shelter from a shower of rain, in a ling kind of a porch, dropped on her knees, and with difficulty exclaimed, " God forever bless you, Madam, you have saved me and my family from ruin." The children beholding their mother's tears, added their plantive cries, and formed together a scene too affecting for so sensi five a mind to behold without the strongest sensations of sympathetic feeling, affording, I should conceive, a sort of heavenly pleasure not to be described, but he those whom Provi-Hence has blessed with a soul of sufficient magnitude. The natural liveliness of disposition Mrs. Jordan was well known to possess, would not easily be damped by sorrowful scenes; nevertheless, although she strove to hide it, the tear of feeling stole down days fr. Trinidad; builast, to Thomas the cheek of sensibility, and stooping to kiss the children, she slipped pound note into the mother's hand, Nortok, with an assorted cargo. and in her usual playful manner, replied, " There, there, now it's over; go good woman: God bless you, don't say another word." The genteful creature would have replied. but this good Samaritan insisted on her silence and departure, which at last she complied with, sobbing forth thanks and calling down blessings on her benefactress. It so happened that another person had taken shelter in the porch, and witnessed the whole as our heroine observed him, came forward, and holding out his hand, and with a deep sigh, exclaiming,

" Lady, pardon the freedom of a stranger, but would to the Lord, the world were all like thee." The figure of this man plainly bespoke his calling: his countenance was pale and woe-begone, and a suit of saoles rather the worse for wear, covered a figure thin and spare. The penetrating eye of our fair philanthrophist, soon developed, the character and profession of this singular looking person, and with her wonted good humour and playfulness, retiring a few paces, she replied, "No; I won't shake hands with you." 'Wby?'

Because you are a Methodist preacher, and when you know who I am,

tells us to clothe the naked, iced the bungry, and relieve the distressed, and of my great Master, without feeling a spiritual attachment that leads me break through worldly customs and offer you the hand of friendship, and brotherly love.' " Well, well, you are afgood old soul, I dare say, but-a-I don't like fauntics : and von'll not like me, when I tell you who I am." " I hope I shall."-" Well then, I tell you, I am a player." The preacher turned up his eyes and sighed. "Yes; I am a player; you must have heard of me: Mrs. Jor-don is ney name." After a short two or three days. pause, he again put forth his hand, and with a completent countenance replied, " The Lord bless thee, whoever thou art; his goodness is unlimited: he has bestowed to thee a large portion of his spirit, and as to thy calling, if thy soul upbraid thee not, the Lord forbid that I should !" Thus reconciled, the rain having abated, they left the porch together, whilst the deep impression this scene, together with the fascinating address of our heroine, made upon the mind of the preacher, overcame all his prejudices, and the offer of his arm be ing accepted, the female Roscius of the romic English drama, and the melancholy disciple of John Wesley, proceeded arm in arm, affording it appearance at least rather a whimsical contrast, till the door of her dwelling put a period to the scene. At parting, the preacher again took her hand, "Fare thee well, sister," said he, .. I know not what the principles of people of thy calling may be, for thou art the first that I ever conversed with; but if their benevolent prac tice equals thine, I hope and trust, at the Great Day, the Lord will say to each, THY SINS ARE FORGIVEN THEE.

A certain lady of unsuspected con ingal fidelity towards ber husband, to whom she had born six children, gave the name of Gratis to a daughter with which she was favored a few years after his decease. A person remarking upon the incident, observed, that however some might reflect upon the conduct of the widow, for his part he thought her excusable—that in his idea, having subscribed and faithfully accounted for six, she was undoubtedly attached to a seventh, Gratis.

BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, particularly in New-York Philadelphia Baltimore Petersburg Richmond Norfolk Edenton Wilmington Charleston and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons in each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has under Providence preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy tounded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the pre-valence of our bilions fevers, will prove an infallible preve "ative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the restoring health, and frequently in cases acrimonious slime and foulness which esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age. They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its mor bid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are of-derate use of tea, frequent intoxication bid secretions—to restore and amend the ten of fatal consequences. A dose never or any other destructive intemperance fails to remove a cold it taken on its hist the unskilful or excessive use of mercuappearance: they are celebrated for re-moving habitual costiveness—sickness at certain period of life, bad lyings in &c the stomach and severe head-ache-and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably effi catious in preventing and curing disor ders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every scaman.

The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mild est purgative that can be used on any

Description of Warins, and the symp toms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz .- The Te res or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbi tina or short flat white worm; and astly, the Teenia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most diffi. cult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms re-disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grind ng of the teeth in sleep; irregular appe tite. sometimes loathing food and some times voracious; purging with slimy and feetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the sto-mach; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.
